CHECKLIST

The Sacred Valley and its surroundings are widely known as one of the most fertile areas in Peru; a valley steeped in history and where nature thrives. In this region, there are about 200 species of birds for birdwatchers.

The number of birds species you can watch mostly depend on the altitude, since the climate of each ecological level of Sacred Valley has a direct impact on the type of wildlife available.

The following list of birds found in this region appears in taxonomic order according to the eBird / Clements Checklist of Birds of the World: Version 6.8, in its updated version of August 2013. Featuring among these species are the Andean cock-of-the-rock, a local Peruvian bird, the White-tufted Sunbeam and the Shining sunbeam.
